I'm always thrilled to share information that transitioning service members and spouses can use to be as prepared as possible for life after the military. Knowing that finding employment is one of the biggest challenges, I literally do a cartwheel when I connect with an organization that is truly supportive of veterans and spouses. If you haven't looked into Corporate America Supports You (CASY), today would be the day to check it out. I've received hundreds (yes, hundreds) of job listings from CASY over the last month, and I've shared these with my clients. Here's the web address:

Fellow military spouses, check out the link below to register and get started as well (and share this with other spouses!):

They also offer additional resources and programs that I encourage you to take a look at and explore. Good luck to you with your job search!
